NEWS RELEASE

Chervanick Named VP of Industrial Projects at Horst Construction

Lancaster, PA — Horst Construction has hired Thomas M. Chervanick as Vice President of Industrial Projects. In his new position, Chervanick will manage Horst's industrial (non-commercial) construction projects.

Chervanick brings more than 37 years of construction-management experience to Horst, including expertise in the installation of complex electrical and mechanical systems. Most recently, he served as a vice president and central region manager for STV Construction, Inc., of Douglassville, PA.

Chervanick is a graduate of the electronics program at the Pennsylvania State University and the advanced motor control systems program at Williamsport Area Community College. He is certified in project management, Primavera Systems Training (a project management software), and basic protective relaying through the Engineers Club of Philadelphia. He lives in Leesport, PA.

Working to help clients achieve their vision since the 1880s, Horst Construction, located at 320 Granite Run Drive, Lancaster, PA, provides construction management, design/build and general contracting services in the Northeast region including projects in PA, NJ, MD, DE and NC. The company employs over 200 skilled trades workers, management and administrative team members in Central PA. Horst Construction is part of the Horst Group, and specializes in industrial/commercial buildings, senior living facilities, hospitality and non-profit construction such as churches and faith-based education.
